

WINE

PRISMA PINOT NOIR

Chile continues to impress me with refined and sophisticated wines that offer a unique perspective on staple varietals. Though technically from the New World, Prisma Pinot Noir showcases an Old World earthy element that resembles classic red Burgundy. The fruit for this bottling is grown in a single vineyard that is sustainably farmed within the Casablanca Valley of Chile. Three different clones of Pinot Noir grown in clay and granite soils complimented by a cool, coastal climate combine to create a wine that is fresh and aromatic. Pair a glass of Prisma with spinach salad topped with toasted almonds and cranberries, glazed salmon, or beet salad with arugula and balsamic vinaigrette.

Cheers!

AMELIA

This week I present to you "The King of Cheeses;" Parmigiano-Reggiano. This delicacy has been made the exact same way for eight centuries with a dedication to creating the perfect taste and texture through extremely strict production standards. This crumbly, granular, hard cheese is a little piece of heaven. Slightly sharp but very complex with layered flavors that leave a wonderful aftertaste on the palate. Latteria Sores is a perfect and authentic representation of this cheese and will be on sale this week for only $5.99, usually $8.99, per 7oz wedge. Grate this over your next plate of pasta, risotto or even in an omelet and enjoy alongside a glass of Tuscan red. Cheers and Bon Appetit!
