

LEITZ DRAGONSTONE RIESLING 2019

JAMIE Befittingly named after the Rhein River that flows along its southern border, the Rheingau region of Germany produces some of the finest examples of Riesling in the world, often with more body than its Mosel counterparts. Leitz's off-dry "Dragonstone" bottling is an elegant reminder of how acidity can perfectly balance a touch of sweetness to create a wine you'll buy again and again. Bursting with citrus, crisp minerality, and laced with nuances of orange blossom and honeysuckle, Dragonstone offers relief from the summer heat. Enjoy a glass with chopped Thai salad with spicy mango dressing or lemongrass-marinated pork. Cheers!

All the way from Southern Italy I give you this week a little antipasto treat; bruschetta by Orti D'Italia. There are many variations of bruschetta from its ingredients to the way it is pronounced. On a side note being from New Jersey, the home of the Sopranos, I can assure you the correct pronunciation is "bru'sketta." Orti D'Italia makes a delicious and authentic line of bruschetta working directly with farmers in Gioiosa Jonica where nature is generous all year round and ingredients are always harvested at the peak of their flavors. Available in two flavors; garlic tomato and basil pesto, these bruschettas are perfect as a snack or appetizer and pair well with a glass of Soave or Sangiovese. Usually $5.99 per 5.3oz container, all Orti D'Italia bruschettas will be on sale this week for only $2.99! Cheers and Bon Appetit!
