

FLORENSAC PICPOUL DE PINET

JAMIE

I know here in Colorado, sandwiched between the plains and mountains, we don't have access to the freshest seafood. I also know that doesn't stop me from eating as much fish as I can get my hands on. Well, step aside Sauvignon Blanc and move over Albarino! Picpoul de Pinet should be your go-to white wine for all fish fare. Zingy acidity is complemented by citrus and green fruit flavors with surprising weight on the palate. The sea breeze minerality of this particular Picpoul makes it even more versatile by neutralizing salt and iodine flavors in shellfish and crustaceans. If fish isn't the food for you, this wine has the ability to cut through soft cheeses and will prove a lovely pair with light salads or chicken piccata. Discover this hidden gem in our 2 for $20 section before it's gone for the season! Cheers! Jamie

AMELIA

This week I've got a cheese for all your quesadilla, enchilada, taco, and salad needs; Cotija by Queso Campesino. Cotija is a Mexican cow's milk cheese named after the town of the same name in the state of Michoacan. It's firm, dry texture and salty, milky flavors are perfect for crumbling over salads and sprinkling over tacos, and even perfect for mixing into a quesadilla. The Queso Campesino label was introduced in 2001 by Colorado Ranchers Inc. under the leadership of Gabriel Robles whose vision was two-fold. As a Mexican-born immigrant, Robles was confident the growing US Hispanic market would embrace his concept for culturally authentic, high-quality Mexican cheese products. The Campesino label has long been recognized by Hispanic consumers for its cultural authenticity and versatility in a wide variety of traditional Mexican dishes and recipes. Campesino uses Grade A whole milk from local dairies to give their cheese a farm-to-table freshness. Usually $6.99 per 12oz round, the Queso Campesino Cotija will be on sale for only $3.99! Cheers and Bon Appetit!
